San Mateo-Mt. Eden Bridge Opens Tomorrow Afternoon

To-morrow, Saturday at 3:30 P.M. President Coolidge will press an electric button installed at the White House and connected direct with the draw span of the San Mateo-Mt. Eden bridge which will drop it into place, thus permitting traffic across the bay from the Peninsula to the Alameda shore, which virtually places us on the mainland, and wiping out for ever, as far as the bay is concerned, the barrier that has hitherto shut us out from quick and easy access to the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys.

In a telegram received Tuesday by President Arthur Batty of the San Francisco Bay Toll Bridge Company, President Coolidge accepted the invitation of the bridge company directors and expressed his pleasure at the opportunity given him to participate in the ceremonies.

The formal opening will occur at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. At that time the huge draw of the center span will have been raised to the top. At the exact moment President Coolidge will press a button in the White House in Washington which will release the span, permitting it to glide down into place. In the meantime committees from Alameda and San Mateo counties will be awaiting each other on either side of the draw. When the span has dropped they will meet and the exercises of the day will be concluded.

Arrangements have been made by bridge company officials to have government, state and local officials present. Representatives of city and county governments and of civic organizations from the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys will be represented, as well, of course, as representatives of San Mateo and San Francisco counties.

The opening of the bridge by President Coolidge will probably be his last public act if not his last official one. The opening of the bridge will occur after nightfall in Washington of Saturday, March 2. On Monday morning March 4, President Coolidge hands over the reins to government to San Mateo's neighbor, Herbert Hoover of Palo Alto.

MRS. HILDA HARDCASTLE HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Mrs. Hilda Hardcastle, while on her way to the Las Lomas school where she is employed as a teacher, last Monday morning, had a narrow escape from death, when a Ford driven by Leonard Reed of Hollister crashed into the rear end of her Chevrolet roadster.

Mrs. Hardcastle approached the corner of the Highway and Santa Cruz avenue, and after giving the proper signal. She had nearly completed the turn onto Santa Cruz avenue when the Ford of Reed, which was being driven at an excessive rate of speed hit the rear of her car.

Luckily all the damage that was done was to the fenders on both cars. Reed's car nearly hit Officer Farley and another man at the corner before it could be stopped and the driver arrested. Farley tagged Reed for reckless driving.

The case will come up on Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Alexander Walker Has Big Contract

Councilman Alexander Walker of Menlo Park, representing Walker Bros. stone and brick contractors, has just commenced work on a big contract in vowing the laying of 100,000 concrete blocks in the new plant of the Golden State Mushroom Company, located at Second avenue and the Middlefield Road, between Redwood City and Menlo Park.

Walker also has a contract to build a parapet brick wall in Atherton which will require the laying of 50,000 brick. Walker Brothers, according to Alexander Walker, are quite busy at this time and have several other contracts in sight.

A. BLANCO PAYS FINE FOR VIOLATION OF LAW

A. Blanco, proprietor of a theatre in Menlo Park, paid a fine of $5 in the court of Judge Edgar Lakin, Palo Alto this week on a charge of violating the law in regard to reckless driving. Blanco, it was stated was driving a car which collided with another machine on the streets of Palo Alto. No one was injured save Blanco, who received a snubbed nose and lost considerable blood.

COUNTY SUPERVISORS ACCEPT NEW BRIDGE

A resolution certifying the completion of the San Mateo-Hayward transbay span, and an ordinance regulating the traffic over the bridge, were adopted Monday when presented by Arthur Batty, president of the San Francisco Bay Toll Bridge Company, and Attorney George Herrington of San Francisco.

Batty informed the board that the bridge will be open to the inspection of the public on March 2, and will be opened to the motoring public on Sunday March 3.

The bridge franchise was granted by the board of supervisors on June 16, 1927, and was to have been completed in June 1929. Batty testified as to the safety of the structure and stated that the bridge was constructed in accordance with Ordinance No. 352, covering bridge construction in San Mateo county.

The ordinance adopted by the board makes it unlawful to walk across the bridge; drive cattle across the bridge; park cars, or drive automobiles on the bridge while under the influence of liquor or drugs.

A remark made at the dinner table, Gunner said that the infield was one of the best that he had ever coached. Since the game his hopes are high, and the aspirations of the squad accompany him in his expectations.

This week there are being played off a number of intramural, indoor baseball games. The teams are composed of selected men from each of the dormitories, and the day boys. These games will be played every day this week. There will also be intra-mural track and swimming events in the near future.

Now that the sun is a regular visitor, the water in the pool is slowly but surely getting warmer, and more and more boys are spending the afternoons swimming and lying in the sun. Some, in fact, are so smitten with the aquatic desire, that they get up before breakfast each morning and take a dip. This is great sport. Oh yes, B-r-r-r!

The grounds have been fixed up for the field events for the track team. There are pits for high and broad jumping. Spaces set aside for discus, javelin and shot. Until the track is in condition, the boys in the sprints, and distances will continue to run at the Stanford Oval.

Card party Wednesday evening, March 6 given by Menlo Native Daughters.

THE SPAN OF PROGRESS LONGEST BRIDGE IN THE WORLD

Isolation of the Peninsula has been a factor of great complication in the growing density of traffic in the Bay district.

A vast project was undertaken, looking toward the relief of threatened congestion...by permitting vehicular traffic on main-traveled routes to move to and from the Peninsula under its own power, without interruption or delay, and subject to a single moderate toll. The brief table of routes, herewith, indicates the extent to which that has been accomplished by the San Francisco Bay Bridge.

Automobile traffic moving at a normal speed from any of the valley points, reaches San Francisco quicker via the San Francisco Bay Bridge than by any other route.

The Western approach of the bridge at San Mateo connects directly with the new Bay Shore Highway from San Francisco, and by paved street connections with El Camino Real. The eastern bridgehead is at Mt. Eden, where it connects, by an extension approach, to the new concrete road that joins the Lincoln Highway (Dublin Canyon Route) at Hayward. To Sacramento, there are two fast routes from Hayward: one over the Lincoln Highway via Livermore, Tracy, Stockton, Lodi and Galt; the other over the scenic route, via the San Ramon Valley and the Antioch Bridge.

To Los Angeles, the short Valley Route joins the Lincoln Highway beyond Tracy, going through Manteca, Modesto, Merced and Fresno.

The density of traffic on one highway...El Camino Real...is an example of the congestion this bridge will greatly relieve. An official census showed over 29,000 auto vehicles passed over this road within a single 16-hour period.

A modern giant strides the Bay... and stands poised there so all may follow. ...A Herculean task is completed.

The engineering dreams of a century have been realized in this mammoth feat which joins the San Francisco Peninsula to the mainland at a point of vantage that demanded a seven and one-tenth mile structure to span from shore to shore.

The San Francisco Bay Bridge was erected for one great purpose, and one that grows daily more momentous...to facilitate highway traffic in the interest of public convenience and public comfort and public economy...to speed road transportation into and out of San Francisco by eliminating delays, and thus shortening the distances between the Peninsula and eastern communicating points, particularly in the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys...to afford a direct route to and from San Francisco over the Lincoln Highway.

President Coolidge Opens Bridge Mar. 2nd—3:30 p. m.

President Coolidge will officially open the bridge to public service by pressing a telegraph key in the White House, Washington, D. C. Dedication ceremonies will begin at 2 p. m., Third Ave. and Bay Shore Boulevard, San Mateo.

Special Announcement
On Mar. 2, the day of formal opening, the bridge will be open for public inspection without charge.

Time-Saving Routes to San Francisco over the SAN FRANCISCO BAY BRIDGE

Sacramento via Levee Highway, Walnut Creek, Hayward. Running time, 4 hours, 18 minutes.

Sacramento via Stockton, Tracy, Hayward. Running time, 4 hours, 40 minutes.

Stockton via Tracy, Dublin, Hayward. Running time, 3 hours, 00 minutes.

Manteca via Dublin, Hayward. Running time, 2 hrs., 40 minutes.

These running times are based on actual tests at 40 miles per hour, except in 15 and 20 mile zones, when the speed conformed to the zone requirements. The tests demonstrate that the routes over the San Francisco Bay Bridge afford the quickest highway communication between points in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys and San Francisco. And there are NO FERRIES...NO DELAYS.

The Next All American Bill

Herbert Hoover is busy choosing the next All-American team, an all-star caste, the ten men of his Cabinet. In forty-eight states forty-eight times as many politicians are trying to choose them for him. Every day rumors and counter-rumors are announced and denied.

A cabinet is not chosen by drawing lots. Political friends have suggestions, newspapers have suggestions, labor unions, Big-Business, and propaganda agencies have suggestions. Will Hoover be a Mussolini surrounded by agreeable yes-men or will he group about him superior leaders, administrators, and statesmen? Will he give the political plums to only the faithful Republican campaigners or will the Hoovercrats of the South be counted in? Will he choose his aids to represent various regions or will he disregard sectional politics? These questions will be answered March 4th.

The retirement of Kellogg as Secretary of State is expected universally. Hughes, Borah, Morrow, Fletcher, and Houghton have been suggested but Stimson now seems slated for the position. Hughes is needed in the World Court, Borah in the Senate, and Morrow in Mexico. Stimson as a Secretary of War, investigator in Nicaragua, and reaper of the harvest sown by Leonard Wood in the Philippine Islands has received the approval of both Hughes and Root.

Andrew Mellon will probably be the next Secretary of Treasury although Vice President Dawes would fill the position admirably. As a Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has been a success, but as an officer entrusted with the enforcement of the elstead Act he has been a tremendous failure. Experts in the crossword puzzle of politics have failed to determine the name of the next Secretary of War although Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts is considered as the next Secretary of the Navy.

The name of Walter F. Brown of Ohio is mentioned frequently for the position of Postmaster-General but the name of the next Attorney-General is still unknown. "Wild Bill" Donovan's name has been mentioned. Borah has declined. Harlan F. Stone of the Supreme Court has also been considered. Silas Strawn of Illinois may be the man.

Ray Lyman Wilbur is believed to be the next Secretary of Interior although many progressives would like to see Gifford Pinchot in this position. Glover of Wisconsin may be the next Secretary of Agriculture. It is unfortunate that Frank O. Lowden could not be brought to this post. No one deserves the position of Secretary of Commerce more than Julius Klein who with Hoover built an obscure department into a great national agency. W. N. Doak of Virginia has been considered as a possible Secretary of Labor but this is by no means certain.

The American people will not be disappointed in the membership of the next Cabinet for Herbert Hoover, engineer, humanitarian, and statesman, will renew the Rooseveltian concept of government — the governments are agencies of human welfare and not business expansion. The days of Fall and Daugherty are over. The days of Hoover are here!

Superlatives In San Mateo County

Several weeks ago the nation's press was praising the achievement of a great railway constructing the new Cascade tunnel. This great engineering achievement in the State of Washington is not the only one to deserve attention, for soon in San Mateo County, California, the longest bridge in the world will be ready for use—the San Francisco Bay Toll Bridge from San Mateo to Mt. Eden.

This monolithic structure spanning the bay is seven and one-tenth miles in length, cost $7,500,000, and has every arrangement necessary for the convenience of the public. Completed one hundred and six days before the date specified it is another example of progress. Safer and swifter transportation between the peninsula and the Eastbay cities and the San Joaquin Valley will contribute much to the

BOY, PAGE DIOGENES

A special notice has just been handed out to the Palo Alto police force by Chief of Police Howard Zink. The special notice reads: "Hereafter when ever any of the officers violate the traffic law they shall give themselves a citation and appear in court." So far no one has reported. But Judge Edgar Lakin is always ready to receive traffic violators when they arrive. The police department, it is said, is the only class of Palo Alto citizenship that to date has failed to come before the judge.

The Building Committee will proceed to organize the necessary committees for going forward with the building plans. It is still necessary to raise subscriptions to the amount of about two thousand dollars from interested citizens before it can be assured that the building plan can be adopted that was originally chosen. About 80 people have to date subscribed $8000. Other interested persons will be interviewed before final plans can be made.

Rev. W. A. Cowden, of Oakland, California, formerly a missionary to Alaska gave a most interesting lecture on Alaska on last Wednesday evening at the church. The lecture was illustrated with 150 beautiful colored slides. Mr. and Mrs. Cowden are old friends of the Bone family and were guests in the home Wednesday afternoon and evening.

TRUE COMEDIAN SAVES SITUATION

There is nothing more exasperating in the production of a moving picture than to have the film buckle, and of all the people it annoys it has every right to make the actor the maddest. A camera rebelled at the end of a long day's work of singing and talking sequences for the Tiffany-Stahl Tiffany Tone production, "Lucky Boy," starring George Jessel—and thereby hangs a tale of heartache behind the padded walls of a sound studio.

George Jessel was making "Lucky Boy" when he was giving eight performances a week of a stage play, "The War Song." His role in this play was longer than "Hamlet" and he also had to much singing in it. The hands of the studio clock were creeping past seven p. m. Jessel had been at the studio at ten that morning, eating his breakfast in make-up off a chair. In another hour and a half the curtain would ring up on "The War Song" and it looked as though its star would be missing, for certain scenes had to be shot before he could leave.

All was ready—the scene one in which Jessel, a novice on amateur night, was to hold a rowdy audience spellbound with his singing of "My Mother's Eyes." The cry of silence had been given. The door was locked and guarded. Velvet curtains and screens heavily padded with felt hemmed him in so completely that he could only be seen by sitting on the velvet carpeted floor. There reclined the directors, who, with waves of the hand, relayed signals back to the orchestra leader that were interpreted by him to mean pianissimo or fortissimo, for the orchestra was out of the camera scene and played before a microphone in another part of the room. While Jessel sang not a Kleig light sputtered, not a click of the camera, encased in a soundproof box, was heard, not a visor breathed—only the Jessel voice and the orchestra filled the room with melody. Jessel sang the first verse and chorus and had progressed a few lines into the recitation of the second tear-stirring stanza when the cameraman broke the silence with a loud "Stop!"

The film had buckled! I had gotten tangled in its journey from its unexposed spool to its exposed spool and the scene had to be done completely over.

The Jessel voice had been singing all day—it had a night's work ahead of it—time, strength and voice were fleeting. The cameraman rewound his instrument and again all was in readiness. The plaintive melody of "My Mother's Eyes" was sung again—the recitation almost reached the end—and the film buckled!

Jessel made a dash for the door—"Let me out of here, quick, before I shoot myself," he whispered to the door attendant, but the door had hardly closed on him before he had returned and, snatching the baton from the orchestra leader's hand, had everyone in the studio in hysterics over his efforts to conduct the music. Tiredness, hurry and worry had given way to the spirit of play, which is the mark of the true comedian.

And the third time was lucky. From beginning to end Jessel told his jokes, sang his song and made his bow—and beat it for a taxi, a hasty bite, then off with the movie make-up of "Lucky Boy" and on with the foot-light make-up of "The War Song," all in the space of one scant hour.

"Lucky Boy" is the first feature picture in which George Jessel talks and sings, and it is said to be the first sound picture of its kind, being almost a musical comedy of the screen. It is the attraction at the Stanford Theatre for three days starting Sunday March 3. Margaret Quimby, Gwen Lee, Richard Tucker, Rosa Rosanova, William K. Strauss, Gayne Whitman and many others are in the tremendous cast.
